Use this valuable resource to identify faculty and peace research centers worldwide. Mentor students as they seek out graduate study options.

Grad Schools

“This Directory is essential for the kind of networking we need to be doing among the programs involved in teaching and research in the peace studies field. What a boon for students looking for training in conflict resolution and nonviolence...now we can find each other!”

~ Elise Boulding, author of Cultures of Peace: The Hidden Side of History and Emeritus Professor of Sociology, Dartmouth College

“The Global Directory...is a vital resource for students interested in studying justice and peace, and for academics and activists looking for like-minded collaborators.”

~ Jody Williams, Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, 1997

“A necessary/important book for all thinking/loving/peaceful persons. Let us take peace studies and justice everywhere—to supermarkets, subways, airports, churches, synagogues, schools. Let us make peace and justice the ‘business’ of the planet!”

~ Sonia Sanchez, poet, activist, author of Homegirls and Handgrenades and Laura Carnet Professor of English and Women’s Studies, Temple University
